On June 11th and 12th, 2005 NAHC convened the innovative National Housing and HIV/AIDS Research Summit: An Examination of the Role of Housing in the HIV/AIDS Continuum of Care and of Housing Status as a Determinant of Individual and Community Health. The Summit, held at the Emory University Center for AIDS Research, provided an unprecedented forum for a core group of researchers and policy experts to present and discuss existing research, to share information and strategies regarding ongoing and planned research projects, to discuss the policy and program implications of rigorous research, and to examine and discuss disparities in access to care and health outcomes.

This Briefing Book contains all materials used by the researchers and policy experts at the Summit. It is an unparalleled resource for providers, advocates, researchers, students, and any one else interested in the vital Housing–HIV/AIDS connection. Use the Briefing Book in developing HIV/AIDS housing needs analyses in grant proposals and for educating the public and policy makers.

The 450-page book contains:

Copies of each of the researchers' and policy experts' PowerPoints presented at the Summit

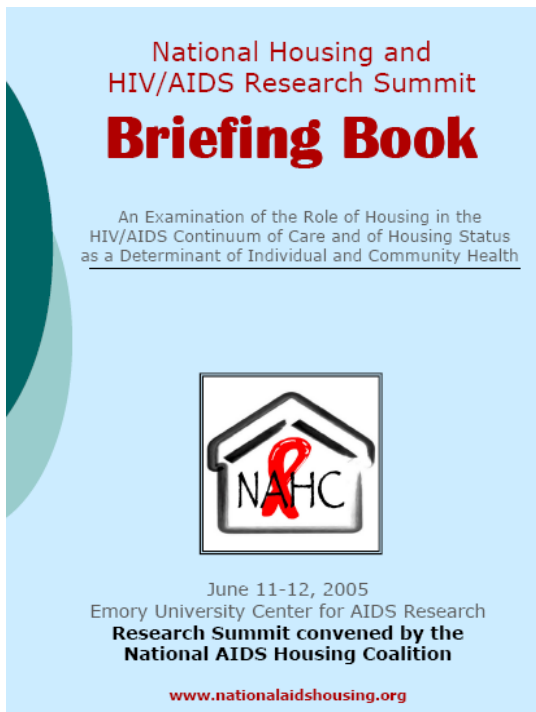

Journal articles containing the most recent, relevant published studies from the preeminent researchers in the field of housing, homelessness and HIV/AIDS including:

- Dr. Angela Aidala, Columbia University
- Dr. David Holtgrave, Johns Hopkins University
- Dr. Dennis Culhane, University of Pennsylvania

Includes articles from the leading public health, epidemiology, and infectious disease journals such as AIDS and Behavior, JAIDS, and the American Journal of Public Health.

Also included:

- 75 pages of relevant bibliographies
- Recent abstracts and information on current, ongoing studies
- Fact sheets and reports from the field and AIDS housing advocates
- Information on current policy and legislative issues
